

Aquatics Live

The national show for thousands of fishkeepers and reptile enthusiasts in the UK

Over two days in November, London Olympia will play host to the UK's greatest event for aquarists for twenty years. Aquatics Live will bring together exhibitors drawn from all over the country, giving visitors a unique chance to shop, ask questions and see first-hand the widest range of available products. They will also have a rare opportunity to talk face-to-face with manufacturers and see demonstrations of the latest innovations in fishkeeping and herpetology.

In the two Seminar Theatres hosted by experts, presentations will be running all day, aimed not only at experienced aquarists and specialists, but also at beginners and novices who are looking for advice and inspiration.

National associations and clubs will be on site with information for new members, and colleges offering aquatics courses will be there to advise on specialist education and careers.

Aquatics Live will be an all-inclusive celebration of one of the country's most widespread and rewarding hobbies and is a must-visit for anyone with an interest in fishkeeping or reptiles. Entry is £10. £7 if pre-booked on line <http://www.aquatics-live.com>.
